A Young Man Regarded as Desirable.

Roosevelt-Washington Episode Caused It All.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 26.—(Spl)—Gen. Laps D. McCord, private secretary to Congressman J. Wesley Gaines, and the originator of the recent movement to nominate a southern man for Vice President, returned from Washington Thursday. He said in regard to the Roosefelt-Washington incident: "The President's escapade is regarded in Washington as it is in Nashville, as a social indecency, and it is not remarkable that, the South condemns and resents it most, seeing that she is to be the most affected by it. If sectional difference and feeling are aroused, it is because southern people have a nicer conception of social decency than the President.

"The episode teaches us a valuable lesson, when the question of nominating a southern man for President is being discussed. It admonishes us to put up a young man. If we are
